

2008 China Greenhouse & Horticulture Seminar

27~29 Nov., Ningxia

IF CHINESE MARKET IS YOUR WANT, YOU NEED TO BE THERE.

WHAT IS CGHS 2008?

China Greenhouse & Horticulture Seminar is held annually, which has become a platform for enterprises, government, researchers, growers and consumers. Broad discussion would be carried out on the development, the opportunity and the future of horticultural industry. The coming seminar is the 7th since 2002, sponsored by Richland Sources.

CGHS provides the platform to promote industry development and prospect the future, by looking back on the industry development and exchange experience by focusing on and review the hot issues of the last year. CGHS fully considers the features of various regions in China in selecting the venue of this annual event. CGHS is devoted to the conclusion of achievements and development of facility horticulture industry through the past year, and prospect the future development. Therefore, CGHS will focus on technical update, managerial experience exchange, development & research result sharing, marketing analysis and industry policies learning etc. To sum up, CGHS aims to promote the communication among all horticultural industry fields and the development of the industry.

WHO TO ATTEND?

Attendees include government officials, academics, enterprise representatives, growers, etc.

Why in Ningxia?

Northwest China possesses favorable condition for facility agriculture development, i.e., rich resource of light and heat, vast land resource, abundant energy resource, low labor cost etc. Meanwhile, the development of facility agriculture could overcome many negative factors in the agriculture production, for instance winter coldness, desertification, drought and water shortage. It plays an important role on making up for shortage of land resource in China, meeting the demand of food production, seeking to exploit new land resource and protecting the environment. However, the lag of technology and information system has been a barrier on agricultural industry development.

Therefore, CGHS 2008 will enter into Ningxia this year to probe into the future development in Northwest China, and promote the facility agricultural development via this platform.
